Qualification Grading Criteria

The generic Ofqual grading criteria for the unit level 3 in this qualification are shown in the table below. These criteria should be used by centres in conjunction with the unit mark sheets to assess all students' work.

Individual units can be graded either as fail, pass, merit or distinction. However, the qualification is not subject to grading. The qualification is either achieved or not achieved.

In terms of certification, this means that students will receive a transcript of their results showing the grades for each unit successfully completed, plus the Diploma that recognises their level of achievement. Note that the Diploma does not allocate a grade.

Level 3	Students who fail:	To achieve a pass, students must:	To achieve a merit grade (70% to 84%) students must:	To achieve a distinction grade (85%+) students must:

Accreditation requirements

Resources

A professional kitchen environment, including associated food storage areas is essential for the delivery of this qualification. The kitchen may take the form of a full production kitchen and/or a skills-based kitchen. These would need to be completely furnished with the professional equipment and tools to teach professional cookery at this level. A cookery demonstration area would also be an advantage. Access to a range of cookery and food related books is essential. Centres will need to meet these specialist resource requirements when they seek approval from CTH.

Students will be required to wear suitable protective clothing (PPE) during all practical sessions throughout the course to meet the requirements of the Food Safety Act 1990 (or similar legislation). Chef's whites, headwear and safety shoes would be the preferred option. Knives will be an essential requirement of the course and provision of a personal set will be necessary. These could be made available through the centre to ensure suitability.

Teaching staff

Staff delivering and assessing the Level 3 Diploma in Professional Cookery should be completely familiar with current practice standards in the sector and have experience of cooking at or above the level to be delivered as a minimum. Ideally the teaching staff should have had experience as a Sous Chef at high standard establishments such as 5-star hotels.

A teaching qualification, experience of teaching and a professional qualification in the subject taught, at one level higher than the level taught, is also desirable. CTH will require the CV's of all teaching staff when the centre seeks approval to deliver the qualification.

Delivery strategies – Practical units

This qualification is primarily practical in structure and it is important that the teaching reflects this. It has been designed to be delivered in a teaching environment with equipment outlined above. It is not designed to be delivered in the workplace.

Students must have the opportunity to explore cuisine through the preparation and cooking of a range of dishes which cover the full spectrum of the curriculum and menu structures, enabling students to develop the skills to take their assessments. Students need to experience through demonstration and practical work all the key elements of cooking for which they are being assessed.

Students will be required to follow professional, safe and hygienic practices at all times.

The Qualification and Assessment Handbook supplied to accredited centres includes indicative content for each practical/food unit, showing the minimum requirement to be covered by the time the unit is completed. Teachers should ensure that practical work carried out by the students fully reflects the purpose of the unit to be assessed and covers the indicative content requirements.

Students will need to build an electronic portfolio of evidence to demonstrate their skills level. This should be made up of recipes which have been produced during the length of the course. Recipes should include ingredients, methods, a picture of the completed dish held by the student, students' notes, assessor's feedback and indicative content covered when making the dish.

Centres need to show, on each recipe making up the portfolio, and on each exam marking sheet, what indicative content was covered.

CTH Support

CTH employs specialist staff with both considerable culinary experience and assessment expertise, who are available to offer advice and guidance to both prospective and accredited centres. A skype conversation forms part of the accreditation process to ensure a full understanding of the requirements for the qualification and to assist with planning activities.

CTH also supports centres by providing examples of recipes and combinations of dishes on the CTH members website that meet the grading criteria at each level, as it is important that centres delivering CTH qualifications understand the requirements fully for each level. In general Level 3 expectations are for an increased range of cooking techniques and more complex dishes than a Level 2 qualification. For example, a purée soup is at Level 2 whereas a Lobster bisque would be a Level 3 soup due to the complexity of preparation and cooking methods.

Assessment Information

Methodology

The Level 3 Diploma in Professional Cookery has an assessment methodology of both practical examinations and written assignments.

Centres staff are responsible for setting the practical examinations, which must be sent to CTH for approval four weeks before the exam date. Teaching staff will assess students' practical work, and centres must also allocate an internal verifier who will assure the quality of the assessment processes. CTH can provide training and guidance on the assessment requirements and process.

CTH will set and provide all written assignments. Centres will initially mark and internally verify them before electronically submitting them to CTH with completed mark sheets for moderation.

Each unit will be assessed individually, and each unit at Diploma level carries an equal weighting within the qualification. All units must be passed to achieve the qualification.

CTH will review electronic evidence of all student work submitted by centres and moderate the centre-assessed and verified assessments. For new centres this will be based on a 100% sample of work, reducing over time.

Grading Criteria

Individual units can be graded either as fail, pass, merit or distinction. However, the qualification is not subject to grading. All assessments carry equal weighting and will be marked against the generic grading criteria on a previous page, in conjunction with the unit mark sheets to assess all students' work.

Grade Boundaries

Grades awarded for each unit are based on the following marks out of a total of 100 marks:

Fail	Pass	Merit	Distinction
0 - 54 marks	55 - 69 Marks	70 - 84Marks	85+ Marks

Guidance for Assessing Practical Examinations

All units:

For all units which are assessed via a practical examination, students will be required to produce dishes in a real kitchen environment to demonstrate they have met the requirements of the assessment criteria.

Practical Examinations are internally written and submitted to CTH for approval, at least 4 weeks prior to the exam. They may only be used once approved by CTH.

Exams usually last for three hours, plus a 30-minute period for preparation of the section.

For each examination, students are required to produce and submit:

- a time plan to show they are able to plan, and
- an ingredient request form to demonstrate they can order the food they need.

A single examination may cover the assessment of multiple units.

The exams are internally assessed and verified, then quality assured by a CTH External Verifier or Culinary Examiner who will either visit the Centre to observe the practical examination or assess remotely through Skype, and analyse the assessment and internal verifiers mark sheets for consistency of application of marks in applying CTH standards.

Electronic photographic/ video evidence of student work should be supplied to CTH together with completed mark sheets supplied by CTH; more details in the Assessment Handbook.
